

What are Micropiles?

Micropiles are long shafts formed on the spot to serve as deep foundations and attain high tensioned stress, they are composed with sand, cement mortar and thoroughly reinforced with metal throughout its entire length.

